I have recently read in our local paper about how slow the new housing market has become over the last several months. This slow down has caused new home contractors to engage in remodeling projects until the market rebounds. Well, the market will rebound, and the new home contractors will return to new home construction. Where will that leave you?

RENOVATIONS engages the remodeling market ALL the time. We specialize in the nuances of working in your home while you live there. Our staff understands the intricate details necessary to marry the existing with the new. We have been, and will continue to be, the Prescott area's most consistent premier remodeling service. Remodeling is our business...all the time!

The photo below shows and example of how a simple bathtub / shower remodel creates an exciting space for family and guests at a reasonable price!

RENOVATIONS is in the process of building a new web site that will provide information and resources necessary to help homeowners make remodeling choices and decisions. We will provide links to various products and information sources of value to you.
